

Carl Wiberg

Project Manager, AkzoNobel

Carl Wiberg is originally from Goteborg and has studied in Stockholm, Frankfurt and Malaga, ultimately obtaining his M. Sc. in Accounting & Financial Management at the Stockholm School of Economics. After stints living and working in Denmark and Germany, he relocated to Portland, OR in 2010 and since 2014 he and his wife are Chicago residents. Carl has a background working with renewable energy and is passionate about sustainability in general.

He works for AkzoNobel, a world-leading paints-, coatings- and chemicals company. As a project manager in their continuous improvement group he manages global projects within a multitude of areas, such as production, supply chain, inventory management and process excellence.

In his spare time, he enjoys crossfit, running and skiing. On occasion you can also find him enjoying the taste of a craft beer at one of the many fine breweries here in Chicago.
